Workers turning to alcohol to relieve stress

By CATHERINE PYE

Stress at work is leading people to drink, according to an NHS study.

Almost half of Lancashire workers who drink say they do so to relieve stress after work, with a quarter saying they do it on at least one occasion a week.

The new survey for the Government's Know Your Limits campaign also shows 19per cent of the county's workers who drink have felt pressurised to do so to fit in with work colleagues.

Alcohol can impact on performance in the workplace and 9per cent of drinkers in Lancashire, including those in Blackburn with Darwen, say they would cut down on their alcohol consumption because they think it is affecting their work.

The NHS-recommended limit for men is to not regularly drink more than 3-4 units a day, and for women to not regularly drink more than 2-3 units a day.

Forty one per cent of drinkers in Lancashire did not know the recommended limit for men, and 34per cent did not know the recommended limit for women.

Dr Ruth Hussey, regional director of public health, expressed concern about the numbers of workers who use alcohol to relieve stress.

She said: "The side-effects of alcohol can include anxiety, lack of sleep, and depression, so it's not an effective way to wind down.

"The more alcohol we drink, the more we need to relax, which can lead to dependency.

"There are many other healthier ways to de-stress after a hard day at work."

Hollie wins slot in Talent semi-finals

By BEN BRIGGS

Stardom beckons for young singer Hollie Steel after she made it through to the semi-finals of Britain's Got Talent.

Oakhill College pupil Hollie, 10, who grew up off Pendle Way, Burnley, before moving to Huncoat with her family, was given the thumbs-up by the show's judges last Saturday night.

The East Lancashire youngster was one of 40 contestants to make it through to the next round of heats.

There were 200 acts for the judges to choose from, and Hollie admitted that the pressure was starting to be felt.

Before it was announced she said: "I am feeling really nervous about today."

But those nerves were dispelled when Piers Morgan, who sits alongside Simon Cowell and Amanda Holden on the judging panel, told her she was going through.

And mum Nina, 37, said they were hopeful she'd get through her semi-final tomorrow (Friday).

She said: "We have just got to hope she gets through and does well. She desperately wants to get into the final.

"The song she is going to sing is so beautiful, it will melt people's hearts.

"We just can't say what it is at the moment.

"Hopefully the people of East Lancashire will get behind their little star."

She must now battle against a host of talented, and sometimes bizarre, contestants if she is to achieve glory.

In her semi-final she will go up against talented dancer Aidan Davis and soprano Greg Pritchard.

If she gets past them, she could face other stars such as Susan Boyle, 12-year-old singer Callum Francis, Devon escapologist Merlin, chubby burlesque dancer Fabia Cerra, and street dancers Flawless.

£3m hotel plan

A £3million scheme to improve Northcote Manor, Langho, has been granted planning permission. The work will see around 14 new bedrooms built, improvements to the hotel and restaurant facilities, a new spa building, and extra parking.

Parking move

Parking on part of Borrowdale Avenue, Blackburn, is set to be banned after residents said it made their road dangerously narrow. Staff at Our Lady and St John's RC College have objected, claiming there is nowhere for them to park at work.

Rovers ticket prices slashed

FAN-TASTIC: Workers at Crown Paints, from left, Susan Woodburn, Stephen Noonan, Graham Ingham and Julie Lane, cheer the decision by Rovers to reduce season ticket prices for next season

Blackburn Rovers' decision to slash season ticket prices has been heralded by workers at the club's sponsor Crown Paints.

Staff at the Darwen factory took a break for 20 minutes to tell us how much they are looking forward to next season with the prospect of full houses at Ewood Park.

Our sister newspaper, the Lancashire Telegraph, exclusively revealed last week that season ticket prices for next year would start at just £199, the third lowest in the entire Football League. And Rovers regulars are hoping the '12th man' that has helped propel the club to safety over the last month will return next season.

Chris Cosgrove, already a season-ticket holder at Rovers, said: "The atmosphere over the last three or four games has been a lot better.

"If that can continue next season, then it could be worth an extra three or four places in the league."

Jonathan Mercer, who used to watch Rovers regularly, but has not been much since starting a family, said: "To have 25,000 people there every week would really help the atmosphere.

"There is no doubt that a good crowd could really be the '12th man' and make a big impact.

"It is also brilliant for families. For two adults and two children to go to a Premier League match can cost a fortune.

"This will really bring the families back to Rovers."

Jack Rydeheard, a season-ticket holder, said he hoped it would attract youngsters.

"If we can get youngsters in then, hopefully, we won't lose them to the likes of Manchester United," he said.

And Chris Miller, also a season-ticket holder, said Rovers could end up claiming other teams' fans.

"I know Preston fans who also watch Rovers because it is so cheap and they want to watch Premier League football.

"That could end up happening even more now."

School travel plan

As part of National Walk to School Week, pupils at St Paul's RC Primary School, Feniscowles, Blackburn, have submitted a travel plan, outlining ways to improve school travel, to the Department for Children, Schools and Families. With them are Coun Derek Hardman, school travel officer for Blackburn with Darwen Cheryl Sandford, and teacher Pauline Woodfield.

150 new jobs joy

By NAFEESA SHAN

One hundred and fifty jobs are being created at an Accrington call centre.

The announcement represents a complete turnaround for the site at the Globe Centre, St James' Square.

Last year Thomas Cook closed its call centre as part of moves to save £2million, putting 260 jobs at risk.

But, at the eleventh hour, Sitel, a firm which provides call centres for internet-based travel agent Expedia, took over the site, saving 150 posts.

And now the firm has announced that it will expand the operation by the autumn, doubling the workforce.

Hyndburn Council leader Peter Britcliffe said: "We have worked very closely with Sitel, which is based in the Globe Centre, over a number of weeks. It is a wonderful operation. They are doing very, very well.

"It seems the Lancashire voice is welcoming and friendly.

"Sitel is looking to expand by autumn and is looking to employ 300 people on the site.

"It's nice to see Hyndburn Borough Council is bucking the trend in creating jobs in this climate."

But, speaking after the meeting, leader of the opposition Graham Jones took a swipe at the Conservative group. He said: "The expansion plans announced by Sitel are thanks to the hard work of the former council leader George Slynn, who died last month.

"It was his vision and it is his legacy which has created these jobs. It is sickening that Peter Britcliffe is taking credit for something he was opposed to."

Coun Britcliffe added: "The Labour Group is totally unable to welcome any good news that the Conservatives have created. Isn't it time we all started to work together?"

Dr Francis Apaloo MD, MBA

Our man in Europe for our cause. Vote for Dr Apaloo, on the 4th of June, to start a change in Europe for the people of North West.

"The Union of Europe as it exists today, is meaningless without the full participation of Great Britain. Without Britannia that rules the waves at the helm, that ship is bound to founder in the choppy seas ahead".

We are in Europe with our body and mind. Bosses of small businesses wish to maximise on their earnings by deploying the euro, as they contribute up to over 70% of our GDP. Workers on the other hand to not wish to sacrifice their soul. Obviously, there is need for a common ground.

We chose the green of Liberty, intertwined with the white of Life for all. Both of these are cocooned in a virtual rainbow of Love, that is sadly lacking in our society today.

Tesco store to open on former pub site

By TOM MOSELEY

A pub that closed following a long-running battle by locals to keep it open is to become a Tesco supermarket.

Regulars fought in vain against the closure of the Oak Tree, Livesey Branch Road, Blackburn, in 2007.

They submitted a petition against previous plans by the Co-op to open a store on the site, claiming it would increase anti-social behaviour.

Now Tesco has confirmed it has taken it over and plans to open an Express store on the site – a move which will not need planning permission.

Livesey with Pleasington Tory councillor Derek Hardman said: "The brewery said they had no interest in opening a pub on the site.

"Tesco have bought it and no matter what anyone thinks, legally there's nothing we can do because it has the same planning status.

"Let's just hope they will be responsible," added Coun Hardman.

His fellow ward councillor, Alan Cottam, added: "Pubs will just disappear if they don't have the customers, and they didn't have enough customers."

Tesco spokeswoman Juliette Bishops said: "We can confirm that we have agreed to lease a new retail unit to open a Tesco Express store.

"The unit is part of the redevelopment of the former Oak Tree pub, in Livesey Branch Road.

"This is an excellent opportunity for a Tesco Express with lots of people living in the immediate area, which is currently under-served for convenience retailing.

"An Express store's purpose would be to serve the immediate neighbourhood around it."

She added: "The developer is starting work soon and we hope to be able to open the Express by the end of 2009, creating 20 to 30 new jobs."

The new store will be about the size of a tennis court, she added.

Vampire from E Lancs?

By SALLY HENFIELD

Blood-sucking vampire, or a humble East Lancashire cotton weaver?

Burnley-born Sarah Ellen Roberts, nee Gargett, who died 96 years ago in Peru, is one of the most iconic cult figures in the South American country.

According to Peruvian legend, she had to be buried there as nowhere else in the world would take the casket of a woman believed to be one of the three brides of Dracula.

But historians in East Lancashire said Sarah was 'just a cotton weaver' and there was no substance in the Peruvian myth.

Now her gory legend is being immortalised in a play being written by villagers from Pisco, in the south of Peru. They want to hear from any descendants of Sarah in East Lancashire. Pisco legend says in June 1913, Sarah, of Isherwood Street, Blackburn, was sentenced to death by East Lancashire officials after she was accused of being a witch, a vampire and a murderer. They believe as she was flung, still alive, into a lead-lined coffin she cursed those who had consigned her to her fate and vowed to return for vengeance in 80 years – 1993.

LEGEND: Sarah's headtsone in Peru

Drama enthusiast Racso Miro Quesada, who is turning the legend into a play, said: "Her husband J.P. Roberts travelled the world trying to find a place to bury his wife.

"Because of the things she was accused of, no-one wanted to have the remains. She ended up being accepted in a small fishing town in south Peru – Pisco."

In 1993, as Sarah was due to exact her revenge, her gravestone cracked. Pregnant women fled in fear that Sarah's spirit might try to reincarnate itself in their child and hundreds bought vampire kits, with garlic and a wooden stake, before descending on the graveyard to await the resurrection. When she failed to appear, those throwing holy water and praying said they had kept her at bay. Peruvian television produced a documentary of the happenings in 1993.

However, Roger Booth, Blackburn with Darwen's library officer for local history, said: "Sarah has gone down in history but, in reality, she was just a cotton weaver.

"It is understandable people in Peru may have believed this tale in 1913, but it is hard to see how they still thought she was going to emerge from her grave in 1993."

Out on stage is always amazing

YOU RELEASED THE LAST ALBUM WITH EMI, BUT THIS IS ON YOUR OWN LABEL. WHAT HAPPENED?

EMI went through a massive change last year. We had a good campaign the first time around and had a great time working with them, but things change. I wanted to make a new record straight away, so I just went ahead and did it myself!

ARE YOU WORRIED FINANCIALLY ABOUT GOING IT ALONE?

It's weird at the moment. My brother's been going through a tough time with work. He lost his job because of the credit crunch. I think everyone is feeling the pinch at the moment. Doing it myself and paying, I became much more focused.

YOU WERE NOMINATED FOR AN IVOR NOVELLO AWARD FOR YOUR SINGLE LET ME OUT. HOW DID THAT FEEL?

It felt amazing when we were nominated, amazing on the day, and then I felt absolutely rubbish when we didn't win! I was up against Amy Winehouse. She had two songs in the category and I had one.

ARE YOU FEELING EXCITED ABOUT HEADING OUT ON TOUR?

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Jamie Hartman, of Ben's Brother

Always! I love touring, getting out on stage is always amazing. I haven't been out there for a while. It'll feel like I'm home again. There's nothing better than meeting people who listen to your music and support you.

Ben's Brother is the stage name of British singer-songwriter Jamie Hartman. Having released his debut album Beta Male Fairytales in 2007, he returned this year with his second album Battling Giants and is currently on tour – May 28, Ruby Lounge, Manchester; May 29, Islington Academy, London; May 30, Thekla, Bristol; June 9, The Globe, Cardiff.

Comedy on menu

Actress Shobna Gulati comes to Blackpool this week, in Victoria Wood's delicious comedy Dinnerladies. CAROLINE DUTTON spoke to her.

Ask Shobna Gulati the best thing about bringing classic comedy Dinnerladies to the stage, and she doesn't hesitate to answer.

"Being back in my tabard!" she said excitedly.

"I love my tabard. Every girl needs one. You don't need to worry about what you're having for your tea. and whether your belly is going to stick out.

"I actually texted Victoria Wood (the show's creator) the other day and said: 'It's strangely comforting to be back in my tabard'."

Shobna, born-and-bred in Oldham, is starring in Victoria Wood's award-winning Dinnerladies. The show has been adapted for stage and includes some extra scenes never been seen before.

EX-CORRIE STAR: Shobna Gulati

"I was a little concerned about how it would work before we started the show," admitted Shobna. "But I met producer and director David Graham, who adapted the show, and he assured me that he'd worked with Victoria Wood before and that she had the final say in the script, so I was really happy about that. Victoria's is the best comedy writing you can possibly do. It's a joy to work with her. She's so funny and intelligent."

Shobna is, of course, most famous for playing Dev's wife, Sunita Alahan, in Coronation Street for six years.

"People still come up to me all the time and ask: 'Where's Dev?'" she laughed. "It's lovely that Corrie fans still come up to me."

Shobna is a single mother to 14-year-old Akshay. She has a degree in Arabic and Middle-Eastern politics, speaks six languages and is a vocal supporter of Asian women's rights and various anti-racism campaigns.

● See Shobna Gulati in Dinnerladies at Blackpool Grand Theatre until May 30. For tickets call 01253 290190, or book online at www.blackpoolgrand.co.uk

Bags of choice for shoppers

VALUE FOR MONEY: A bustling market

ADVERTISEMENT FEATURE

Our region has an array of market towns, offering a choice of shopping facilities, from independent stores selling specialist items, to national high street names.

Add to that the bustling markets, which have grown up from the first market charters granted centuries ago, and shoppers have bags of choice whatever their needs.

Whether you opt to go into town, to spend in the large shopping centres, or pop into the smaller outlets serving your own residential area and community, you'll find plenty of choice.

Markets have played a big part over the years in the local shopping scene, whether you pop into the traditional market halls, with their colourful stalls and friendly faces, or on to the three-day markets, set up on varying days, depending which town you are visiting.

They work in tandem with East Lancashire's many parades of shops, which provide everything you may wish to buy, including all the necessities of life, as well as goods that little more expensive.

Whether it's fashion or foodstuffs, books, buckets, lipstick, or lighting, you don't have to travel far to find what you need at a price to suit.

East Lancashire also boasts a selection of mill shops, which first came into being via the cotton industry, selling textiles and fabrics.

Today, however, the choice has expanded and you'll find mill shops selling a whole variety of goods at bargain prices.

In this particular financial climate, it makes sense to aid the local economy by buying local, rather than in the large, out-of-town shopping malls.

You'll realise, too, that traders are only too aware that money may be tight and will be ready to offer value for money.

WELL DONE THE CLARETS
I've seen the golden sunshine and watched the flowers grow, Its up to the Premier League Burnley F.C.will go. The Clarets of Burnley have done us proud, 36,000 fans from Burnley into Wembley did crowd. Their cheers and enthusiasm made the team strike oil. They hit the jackpot led by Owen Coyle. Wade Elliot in 13 minutes put them ahead, The vital goal that put the game to bed. There's adventure next year with plenty of passion. With a £60 million bonus on players to ration. The area will benefit so much from this game, When clubs visit Burnley of Premier League fame. With Manchester,Liverpool and Chelsea alike. Spending their money from Hapton to lovely Harle Syke. The area is small the people are great, Keep supporting the Clarets,the area's best mate.
